DiGiorgio Speaks

Winthrop president has vision

by Carol Edwards

Johnsonian Living Editor

He tears strips off of his wooden coffee-stirring stick while he drinks out of a Winthrop College mug. He loves Dune the book, but hates what they did to the movie. And he has a lot of plans for the future of Winthrop College.

Winthrop College President Dr. Anthony DiGiorgio took office in July following the death of Dr. Martha Piper in 1988 and the temporary presidency of Dr. Mike Smith.

DiGiorgio said he has not come to Winthrop with any preconceived plans for the college and feels it is still too early to form any definitive course of action, though he has set goals for the college.

Some of his goals include an increased quality of the student body, general excellence in all Winthrop programs, and college-wide efficiency.

DiGiorgio has experience in marketing and recruitment and has already taken steps to improve the student population. The office of admissions now reports directly to DiGiorgio in an effort to connect him more closely with in-coming students.

He has also scheduled 12 luncheons with guidance counselors in high schools across South Carolina to promote Winthrop. He said he wants potential students to realize what Winthrop has to offer.

"There's a real story to tell about Winthrop and I plan to tell it," DiGiorgio said.

He said he believes the college should increase quality and its number of minority students at the same time, providing more diversity in student perspectives.

DiGiorgio also said he believes that size is an advantage for Winthrop because of its smaller classes and other advantages, but was not specific on these issues.

"I would not want to see us grow and dilute what our strengths are," he said.

DiGiorgio said he also wants Winthrop to stress excellence. He said the college's new Master of Liberal Arts program is a step in the right direction, but wants every part

Johnsonian off to a fast start for 1989 - 90

Editor's note
Wynn Archibald
Johnsonian Editor

Welcome back Winthrop students, faculty and staff. We at "The Johnsonian" are looking forward to bringing you Winthrop news and covering campus events.

By now everyone should be settled in and ready to accomplish all those goals you have set for the new year. We at The Johnsonian also have many goals for the year. Our main goal is to be your source of news and information. In order to accomplish this we will need everyone in the Winthrop community to contribute.

I would like to share the Captain's log this year with many guests. This will allow for many different perspectives, ideas and subjects to be presented to you. A reminder to everyone that your letters to the editor are welcomed and encouraged.

If you have an opinion concerning something at Winthrop, there is no better place to voice and be heard than in your newspaper. Remember, "The Johnsonian" is the official newspaper of the Winthrop campus. We are always open to your suggestions and comments.

Advertising in "The Johnsonian" should be of special interest to clubs and organizations. Since our readership is largely the population you draw on for support and involvement, I hope you will use us for advertising meetings and projects that you do throughout the year. Our rates are low and we do have some special deals for campus groups.

We also are in search of people to be on staff. Working on "The Johnsonian" offers many different types of experience. We not only need news and feature writers but also sports writers.

However, if writing is not your particular interest we also have a need for people to sell ads, copy edit, layout, paste up and deliver the paper every Tuesday come rain, sleet or snow.

There is an opportunity here for everyone to gain valuable work experience no matter what your major.

One other opportunity that is unique this year is that we are in a state of change. "The Johnsonian" is open for new ideas and a variety of input. We want to extend a welcome to anyone who is interested in helping make this a superb college paper.

In order to provide a campus wide service we need people from all areas on campus. This sounds simple enough but if you rely on someone else to represent your interest chances are everyone else will too.

We try to cover the entire campus but we need your help to be successful. If you are interested in any type of employment with "The Johnsonian" please meet with us today (Tuesday) at 5:30 p.m.

We are located in the basement of Bancroft residence hall. If you are unable to be there today give us a call at 323-3419.

We are looking forward to keeping you informed. Please help us make this year great.

Sincerely,

Wynn Archibald

of the school to excel.

"If there is a national standard for a program that we have, we have to work diligently to achieve that," he said, "We should use that as a benchmark with which to judge ourselves."

Another goal for DiGiorgio is efficiency, not only in administration, faculty, staff and students, but in technology as well. Winthrop is looking at new computer systems now to reach this point.

"I'm not talking about cost-cutting, but using our resources," he said.

He has additional expectations for students. DiGiorgio believes each student should attempt to contribute something to Winthrop.

He said he wants Winthrop students to say hello when they pass each other. "I think it starts everyone's day well," he said. He also asks students not to litter, and to pick up trash they see.

"Those are very simple things, but they are a contribution," DiGiorgio said.

He said some of his personal goals are to become a knowledgeable and productive citizen of his adopted state, to become involved in the community, and, he said laughing, to "keep sane."

Meeting friends, having fun

Campus Ministry Provides Activities and Fellowship for Students

By Angle Neal

Johnsonian staff writer

Freshman, transfer, or returning student: Campus Ministries has something for everyone.

"I think about school and I really get lifted up," Cecile Young, senior, says.

For freshman Jennie Fleming, Campus Ministries means something else, "Getting involved in Campus Ministries is a great way to meet other Christians and new friends. They make you feel like you are a part of the college; like Winthrop is your school, not just a place to get an education."

If you enjoy aerobics, singing, drama, puppets, revivals, home-cooked meals, fellowships, games, Bible studies, or speakers, there is Baptist Student Union (BSU).

BSU serves home-cooked meals at the BSU building on Tuesdays at 5:30 p.m. ($2.00) and has regular meetings on Thursdays at 7:30 p.m. They are open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. for students' use.

The Campus Baptist Young Women (CBYW) is a mission emphasis group sponsored by BSU. Meetings for this group will be held every other Monday at 6:30 p.m. beginning Sept. 4.

"Our twofold purpose is: reaching students for Christ and equipping students to serve," Sam Joyner says. Joyner is the campus minister for Reformed University Fellowship (RUF).

RUF meets at 8 p.m. on Tuesdays in Dinkins Auditorium for Bible studies, singing, and fellowship.

The Presbyterian Campus Ministry offers a daily Jane Fonda workout, lunchtime scriptures, and Wednesday meal and Bible study fellowships at 5:30 p.m.

Other ministries available on campus include: Wesley, Newman, Westminster foundation (the United Methodist Church), Lutheran, Episcopal Campus Ministry, Roman Catholic Campus Ministry, and Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA—consult Andy Horton for more information).

The combined campus ministries (WCCM) work together to improve world hunger situations.

The Action for Food, Hunger Run, Crop Walk and Ox-fam movements are supported by Campus Ministry.

All the Campus Ministry leaders encourage students to drop denominational barriers and visit WCCM. They are here to meet the needs of Winthrop College students.

"Being a former Winthrop student, I know the frustrations of college life," says Kristy Byers. She encourages everyone to find a campus ministry they might enjoy. When you get involved with a campus ministry you open the doors to new friendships.

New registration plan implemented with few kinks

by Kathy Hartnett

Johnsonian Staff Writer

Many students who participated in open registration this semester noticed a few distinct changes.

Karen Jones, Registrar and Director of Institutional research, said that in the past, a student's registration would be cancelled if payment was not remitted by July 30 or 31. There was, however, a five day reinstatement period.

Under the new system, students are given ten extra days to pay, but there is no reinstatement period.

Jones and Gary McCombs, Assistant Vice-President for Finance and Business, along with several academic deans started reviewing the changes during last semester.

"After last year, we knew something had to be done," Jones said.

The cashier's office was moved to McBryde during open registration so students could register and pay fees at the same time.

Jones said that 5,100 students have registered and paid their fees. At this point last year a student's status was difficult to determine, she added.

Violet Dease, a sophomore at Winthrop, was one of the students whose registration was cancelled.

Dease received her award letter and thought her bill was clear. On the day of the deadline, August 10, she said she called the cashier's office to make sure her payment had been noted and was told that she owed more money.

She later realized that the cashier's office had miscalculated the funds. Her registration was cancelled and she had to register again.

"If I'd known about the bill, it could have been paid," Dease said.

Dease said the main problem she had with the registration process was that the cashier's office was closed and students who were not registering did not know where to pay their other bills.

She did say that, overall, the new registration system was more efficient.

McCombs said this system, with some refinements, will be used next year. "You have to continue to look for ways to improve this process," he said.

Jones agreed and said, "Each time you learn and make improvements on it."

"I like the student getting in one line and taking care of it in one day," said Jones.

Bored Stiff

By Edward Clower

Just a friendly word or two of advice from your's truly

Welcome once again, loyal followers of the only game in town for Winthrop news, to another mirth-filled edition of Bored Stiff, the column that asks the question, "Are you sure your parents know you're here?"

Well, my friends, it seems that it's time once again for us to unpack the lava lamps, get out your milk crates and set up shop back in good ol' WC. I, for one, am glad to be back in the land of the intellectually awake, the home of the socially conscious, and the stomping grounds of the rare and wonderful animalus putsomebrewiusinus.

However (and there's always a however,) there are those among us who are here for the first time; unaware of the thrills, excitement and dangers that await them. (And that's just the beginning! Wait till they leave Café Thomson.) Yes, I'm talking about the fresh, young faces of the proverbial "new kids on the block," the Frosh.

Now don't get me wrong. I'm sure that the bright minds of the incoming class are more than up to the challenge of life at our beloved alma mater and will set themselves to the task with vim and vigor. Or At least desperation.

I can see them now, outside my dorm room window. They're a heartwarming sight, with their faces buried in their schedules, their eyes scanning the horizon for their next class and their brains attacking the relevant issues of society, like the correct pronunciation of "Kinard." They work hard and proudly, but a little friendly advice wouldn't hurt.

Well, not much.

Being the kind and generous soul that I am, I have compiled a little list of "dos" and "don'ts" to make your stay at Camp Winthrop just a little more pleasant. If you feel the need, confirm this list with any upperclassman who will speak to you. Don't mind the snickering sound they make, it's probably some secret fraternity thing.

1: Don't put laundry detergent in the fountain. This is the most tired gag on campus and will mark you for life as unoriginal, but...

2: Do find some other form of harmless but malevolent behavior, such as a panty raid through the President's house. He won't mind.

3: Don't throw up in public, no matter how many (insert appropriate controlled beverage here) you've had to wash down those 17 Spiffy's Dinoburgers. You will forever be branded as one who cannot hold his/her beverage. However...

4: Do find a discreet place to lose your duodenum. Off of the roof of Margret Nance hall, for instance.

5: Just say "no" to drugs. As a matter of fact, the W.C. "Just Say No" club is gathering tomorrow to shout negative replies at Crawford Health Center's pharmacy. Come show your support.

6: And finally, make sure to pay the $47.29 yearly subscription rate to The Johnsonian, in care of the Bored Stiff. With every subscription this month we're giving a free elevator pass, so get your's today.

Well, that about wraps it up for this weeks Bored Stiff, the column that asks the question, "D'd you guys really think taking the yellow name tags off was going to fool anybody?"

Until next time, take care, and try to stay entertained.

'Crimes of the Heart' popular play, later movie, to be staged

By Matt Turner
Johnsonian Staff Writer

Auditions for Crimes of the Heart, were held on the first two days of the semester, and the audition call-backs were held this past Sunday night.

This play by Beth Henley, the first production of the 1989-90 season, concerns the lives of three Mississippi sisters, their hopes, dreams and mistakes.

It is being directed by Blair Beasley.

A total of 44 students participated in the auditions, the largest number of auditions yet for Winthrop Theatre.

Out of this number, 18 were called back for a second reading on Sunday, August 27, and the cast, consisting of four women and two men, was selected from this final audition.

Directors in the theatre department said they are very encouraged that such a high number of students expressed interest in being involved in a Winthrop Theatre production.

The department hopes that the number of those interested will increase so larger-scale productions may be scheduled for future production, they said.

As far as the 1989-90 theatre season is concerned, the following list is of forthcoming productions.

In future issues of The Johnsonian, more specific information will be reported about these upcoming works.

Rants, Raves, Refund Demands

Golly, gee. It's a new semester. I've got a new haircut, a new pair of glasses, a broken wrist, and I'm happy to be alive. I am also thrilled to be back at The Johnsonian, working on yet another glorious semester (or two) of movie reviews.

But do not think that you managed to escape the rants, raves and refund-demands I made over the summer. That's what this first column is all about.

Here we go.

Captain Kirk and the crew of the Starship Enterprise travelled virtually all over the place in the ill-fated Star Trek V: The Final Frontier. With lots of press-hype, a massive ad campaign and William Shatner in the director's seat, the fifth flick in the Star Trek series bit the box office "big one". Paramount made their money back, for sure, but most critics advised to keep the U.S.S. Enterprise out-of-commission.

This critic thought it was okay, giving it a 2 stars out of 4. I just say that if Paramount shoots for a sixth Trek film, it had better fly at Warp Nine and have phasers blazing.

Next on the movie menu is number eight in that interminable series of mindless slasher movies. Even if I didn't say it was Friday the 13th Part VIII, I'm sure you would've known. You probably wouldn't have gotten the hint from "number eight", but from "mindless slasher movies".

Ugh!

This mishmash took Jason The Unkillable to The Big Apple. Don't ask me why Jason did most of his dirty work on a New York-bound cruise ship, but he did. Very little of the story (ha!) took place in Manhattan, but it was all still quite stupid.

As you can guess, I loathed this abomination.

No stars shine on this movie.

Phew! I've been waiting all summer to get that on paper. Anyway...we move on from killers to comics. We move to Batman.

Some liked it. Others loved it. A few said it was bad. Most critics had decisions that split right down the middle, but nobody that was anybody said they hated it.

Now you might get the idea that I really, really, honestly loved this film. I have to say right now that I didn't quite like it that much. Yes, I recommended it to everyone who asked, but there were a few things wrong, mostly from a critical - not purely entertainment - standpoint.

Director Tim Burton was armed with his two major stars, Nicholson and Keaton, two absolutely great musical soundtracks, by Prince and Danny Elfman, and an unbelievable budget from Warner Bros. Pictures. It worked, and people arrived in droves to see it. In the end, though, even for such a good movie, it fell a little short of what I had banked on. Maybe I was just expecting a little too much. Maybe I missed Robin.

No. I didn't miss him one bit. 3 and 1/2 stars.

To round out this week's column, I'm going to go through the major movies of the summer and their ratings. I'm going to do it real quick, so fasten those seatbelts.

Parking to change again

by Molly Nash

Johnsonian Staff Writer

During the summer months there have been several shifts of faculty and staff from one area of campus to another area. The faculty and staff of Withers/WTS have been relocated to Breazeale Hall at the south end of campus. The Admissions office is moving from Tillman to the Stewart House on Eden Terrace and also, new faculty offices have been created on the north end of campus.

Because of these moves and the fact that parking in general is congested, the following changes are to be implemented in the parking lot designation effective for the Fall 1989 semester.

1. Simms field will be improved and designated one half for faculty/staff and one half for commuters.

2. The lot around the tennis courts across from Johnson Hall will be re-aligned to add

Hornets coming to the coliseum Oct. 15

By Eugene Jolley

Johnsonian Sports Editor

The Charlotte Hornets are coming to Rock Hill and Winthrop College. When are they coming and how can you see them?

They are coming October 15 to the Winthrop Coliseum to play the Washington Bullets in a pre-season exhibition game.

Tickets for the game are $18 and Winthrop Students are limited to two tickets. Tickets may be purchased at the coliseum Monday through Friday.

This is a great chance for Hornets followers to get an up close look at the Hornets and their top draft pick this year, J.R. Reid. Charlotte was lead a year ago by Rex Chapman, Kelly Tripucka, Robert Reid and Kurt Rambis.

The Hornets were a major surprise last year as they captured the fans of the Carolinas in their first year. Charlotte lead the league in attendance last year, quite an achievement for an expansion team.

Many people did not get a chance to see the Hornets in person last year and this is a good opportunity to do so.

The game is one of two scheduled for South Carolina with Columbia hosting the other.

There has been talk that the Hornets might start holding their pre-season training camp at the Winthrop Coliseum. This year they are training in Boone, NC at Appalachian State.

The Winthrop Coliseum would be in a perfect place from the Hornets point of view in that it is an excellent facility close enough to Charlotte.

26 named conference scholars

By Eugene Jolley

Johnsonian Sports Editor

Twenty-six Winthrop College student-athletes have been named to the Big South Conference Presidential Scholar list.

A student-athlete had to maintain at least a 3.0 to be selected.

Making the list were: Eric Fearn (cross-country), James Johnson (cross-country), Jonathan Setzer (cross-country), Rodney Gehman (cross-country), Sam Shipp (cross-country), Kay Breining (cross-country), Jennifer Moger (cross-country), Becki Barbary (basketball), Dorothy Davis (basketball), Stacey Gardner (basketball), Michelle Hobson (basketball), Lee Stafford (basketball), Hendrick Deichmann (soccer), Blake Engelhard (soccer), Danny Hermida (soccer), Andy Zapisocki (soccer), Susan Ayers (softball), Vanessa Glasscock (softball), Nina Rozzo (softball), John Black (baseball), Brian Fize (baseball), Maury Clodfelter (golf), Rodney Miller (golf), Polly Baker (golf), Jenny Stevens (golf) and Sandy Britt (volleyball).

Athletic Director Steve Vacendak said, "This list of outstanding student-athletes once again emphasizes the sense of perspective our student-athletes and staff have in regards to academic responsibility. It is a source of pride for all of us to see so many of our student-athletes so recognized. It is also a reflection on the emphasis placed on academics in our athletic program."

Soccer team ready to go

By Eugene Jolley

Johnsonian Sports Editor

Winthrop College head soccer coach Rich Posipanko has announced a 15 game schedule for this season.

In addition to the six games against Big South Conference foes, Winthrop will take on nationally ranked North Carolina State, Georgia Southern, Furman, Citadel, Davidson, the College of Charleston, UNC-Charlotte, UNC-Wilmington, and Wofford.

"This is a good schedule for us. As young as we are this year, it will be a very competitive schedule for us. This year's schedule features a mixture of different levels of competition. For our situation right now, it is very competitive. We should be competitive in most of the games," Posipanko said.

Cross-Country ready for Saturdays opening meet

By Angela Melcher

Assistant Sports Editor

The Winthrop men's and women's cross country teams are getting ready for the 1989 season opener Sept. 2 at Methodist College in Fayetteville, N.C.

The Eagles lost Eric Fearn, Rodney Gehman, Sam Shipp and Gilbert Girbes from last year's 23-64 squad. Fearn and Gehman led the team in all seven meets last season.

The only returners include junior Andy Getz from Dade City, FL and sophomore Andy Brooks from Chapin, S.C. who will provide the experience for the men.

Junior Randy Morrisey, from Winter Park, FL, returns from an injury which kept him out all of last season.

James Johnson is the only senior this year. After sitting out last season, Johnson returns and will be needed to provide extra experience for the team.

Adam Laiewski, Craig McPhail, Scott Sweet and Johnathan Schaffer are the newcomers head coach Ed Guettler hopes will contribute. McPhail is expected to run in one of the top three spots.

"The men will have a very thin team this year and we will need to keep all of them healthy," Guettler said.

The women find themselves in the opposite situation. Michelle Dreon is the only runner lost from last year's 38-41 squad.

Sophomores Marlee Crosland from Athens, GA and Aletha Patsch from Saluda, SC, junior April Tindal from Summerville, SC and senior Angela Melcher from Lexington, SC are the top returners who will once again be counted on to provide leadership for the team.

Other returnees include Kay Breining, Shannan Fromm and Jennifer Moger.

Resignations leave head coaching vacancies

By Eugene Jolley

Johnsonian Sports Editor

The coaching ranks at Winthrop College suffered three jolts this summer as three head coaches have resigned.

Two positions have been filled while two more, one being a dual coaching position, are being looked for.

Andrew Barinski and Rich Posipanko are the two that have been added to the athletic department.

Any of these three will be looked to move up and contribute once again.

Six newcomers will join the Eagles this fall. Included are Becky Burrows, Jenny Conway, Rainey Gettys, Sharon Barinski takes over for Cathy Ivester on an interim basis as head volleyball coach. Barinski served as an assistant coach last year helping the Lady Eagles to a 20-18 record.

"I am very happy about the position. We will try to do our best to continue the fine tradition of Winthrop volleyball. We will work hard to be a winning team. I look forward to the challenge this season," Barinski

Jordan, Jackie Plank and Veronica Underwood.

All but Jordan and Underwood are freshmen. Jordan is a junior and Underwood is a sophomore.

The women, who finished third in the conference last year said.

Barinski will be assisted by Kevin Metcalf.

Ivester resigned to teach physical education at two elementary schools in Lancaster and will coach volleyball at Lancaster High School.

Ivester compiled a record of 103-80 while at Winthrop.

Posipanko takes over for Frankie Griffin as head soccer coach after ten years at Longwood College in Virginia com-are expected to once again challenge for the conference crown.

"We will have a good team if everyone stays healthy," Guettler said. "We have seven good runners right now," he said.

piling a record of 117-49-20. He had previously been head coach at Trenton State College in New Jersey for four years.

Griffin, also Winthrop softball coach, guided the Winthrop softball team to six regular season titles and five conference titles in seven years compiling a 225-88 record. In two years as soccer coach, Griffin guided his team to one regular season crown.

The third resignation was that of women's head basketball coach Anne Copeland. Copeland resigned to teach health and physical education at Castle Heights Junior High School.

Copeland's decision was based on wanting to spend more time with her family noting her two children are five and six years old.

A national search has begun for a full-time volleyball and softball coaching combination position and a women's basketball coach.

Rose deserves one more chance

A tragedy occurred Thursday in the world of sports as Pete Rose was banned from baseball for gambling.

It is hard to believe that baseball would ban a player that has gambled. This seems minor to compared to drug and alcohol addictions or rape. However former commissioner Bowie Kuhn banned Willie Mays and Mickey Mantles because they had part of a casino.

Compared to some other events this year, Rose's problems seem small. For example, Luis Polonia of the New York Yankees has been charged with the rape of a 15 year old while in Milwaukee recently.

By the way, Polonia is playing while out on bail.

This leads us to a interesting predicament. Does Rose deserve another shot? To me he does because gambling is like any type of an addiction. Lonnie Smith of the Atlanta Braves is playing like an all-star, but he had to sit out one year for drug addiction.

Pitcher Dwight Gooden of the New York Mets had to check into a clinic for his addiction.

I think that Rose deserves another chance. This time he needs to pick better people to be his friend.

Season starts this week

The 1989-90 Winthrop College athletic season begins this week.

The Winthrop soccer team, under new coach Rich Posipanko, will take the field Friday and Saturday in the Met Life Tournament in Boiling Springs, NC.

The Winthrop College Men's and Women's Cross Country teams will compete in the Methodist Invitational in Fayetteville, NC on Saturday.

Volleyball will also tip off sometimes this week, but as of deadline, no schedule had been released.

Well, it's time for me to go. Reviewing movies is a tiring business, and I want to leave enough for me to talk about for next time. Also, my fingers hurt from typing on this keyboard for the past hour and a half. "Pounding on the keyboard" would be more appropriate, but I won't say anything about that.

So until next time, keep your nose to the grindstone, ear to the wall, feet on the ground, and your hands to yourself.

If you can find a Macintosh in this room, we might put one in yours. Free.

MATT GROENING

In what will surely be the easiest test of your intellect this term, Apple invites you to try winning a free Apple® Macintosh® Plus personal computer merely by finding it in this drawing.

We'll even give you a hint: It's not the table, the lamp, or the chair.
Now you're on your own.

To register, look for contest details where Macintosh computers are sold on your campus. Oh, all right, we'll give you a hint for that, too: Look at the bottom of this ad.
But do it really, really fast. Because only one Macintosh is being given away on this campus, and it's going to happen soon.

Soon, as in right away. Pronto. Quick-like.
But hey, you can take a hint.

Somebody's going to win a free Macintosh.
